

Book Update, An Award & An Appeal

Spring 2024

Big kudos to you, my fierce fans!

Imagination shapes our world when we embrace the absurd and allow creativity to find us. You the fans have truly embodied this over the past months by your support for Strangely Fierce Fables! Thank you for all your spirit boosting outreach (& surprisingly solid sales). My next appeal: please consider writing a brief Amazon review (I'm aiming for 20+, which truly helps the sales algorithm)! If you need help, or still need a copy, contact me and I'll make it easy. I adore you all, and look forward to hearing about any standout stories that have strummed your soul.

The Maria Edgeworth Contest Award!

The Maria Edgeworth Centre has recognized my story Tiny Dormant Treasures, among three prize winners for contemporary flash fiction, as part of their Literature Festival on May 11th. I'll be attending the ceremony that weekend for a stage reading (pictures of the event coming on IG: pcstudiospublishing). I have been busy submitting my stories for select publications and contests, and I look forward to sharing more wins like this with you all as they come in. Tiny Dormant Treasures is available on SFF, on page 171.

What's Next for Strangely Fierce Fables

- PC Studios has been busy working on new collaboration projects with local Dublin writers, including a literary anthology of shorts opening for submission in the summer. Not to mention my own new stories in progress (did someone say Stranger Fiercer Fables, Vol. 2?)
- Help me spread the word, Amazon.co.uk, Amazon.com, & Amazon.de or contact me to order directly. This is about distribution over profit, so let me help make this easy for you.

Allow creativity to find you and embrace the absurdity. Gratefully, PC
